

State School Official Describes Progress of Mentally Deficient

Dr. Henry Shancer, assistant director at Willowbrook State School, last night spoke on the progress mentally deficient children can make under suitable circumstances at the annual supper of the Staten Island Division of the St. George Association.

The program, in the hall of Vanderbilt Ave. Moravian Church, was preceded by a memorial service for deceased members conducted in the church. The Rev. Edward L. Fischer, pastor of Great Kills Moravian Church, officiated. It was the 13th annual communion and supper for the group, composed of Transit Authority and civil employes.

Criminal Court Judge Alfred J. Cawse was master of ceremonies.

ALBERT ACKERMAN of Brooklyn, national vice president of the association, spoke on the Protestant chapel planned at Idlewild Airport.

Many officials of the Transit Authority and representatives of transit organizations attended.

Two high school seniors, Wayne Fogelstrom of Eltingville and Denis Maybury of Port Richmond were presented with $250 scholarships to Staten Island Community College. They attend Tottenville and Port Richmond High Schools, respectively.

James Tyrell and George Schmitt, co-chairmen of the event, were presented with awards in recognition of their service.
