Chaplains relate their teachings

A panel of three Willowbrook State School chaplains discussed methods of teaching religion to the retarded at a meeting last night of the Richmond Parents, Teachers and Friends of the Retarded last night in the Grasmere branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

The panel included the Rev. Edward Banks, Rabbi Philip Goldberg and the Rev. John Heller.

Letters were sent to the state Legislature protesting recent budget cutbacks in aid to facilities for the mentally retarded.

The next meeting will be April 20.
