

At upstate conference

New horizons for the senior volunteer was the theme of the sixth annual SERVE training institute, attended by many Staten Islanders, last week at Swan Lake, N.Y. Left to right, above, are Arthur Garson of the Community Service Society; Mrs. Harold Reisch, Mrs. Jack Hammond, holding "Betty," one of the puppets used in SERVE programs at Willowbrook State School; Dr. Jack Hammond, and Mrs. Harald Normann, SERVE coordinator on the Island. Dr. Hammond, former director of Willowbrook, before he transferred to the Rome (N.Y.) State School, and his wife were guests of honor at a dinner during the Swan Lake conference.

Gratitude for her work as director of volunteers at Willowbrook is expressed to Mrs. Jack Hammond, right, by Mrs. Marion Burke, president of the West Brighton Center and one of the original SERVE volunteers more than six years ago.
