

Court overrules job dismissal

Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Frank Gullota yesterday ruled in favor of a former Willowbrook State School employe, Joan Brown who had been dismissed from her job by director Miodrag Ristich for allegedly assaulting a patient.

Overruling her dismissal, Gullota declared that the evidence against her was offered by two patients, neither of whom understood the nature of the oath.

He ruled that the employe was, therefore, denied a fair hearing and the testimony was inadmissible.
