

Fashion and fun combined

Young people at Willowbrook Developmental Center admire the garments adorning models Tajah, center, and Maxine McCrey during the fashion show and revue staged there yesterday.

Gloomy weather yesterday did nothing to cloud the happiness of Willowbrook Developmental Center residents, for whom a big-time fashion show and variety revue were brought right to their doorstep.

Long before the first model appeared on the runway, the auditorium at Willowbrook was packed.

The guests saw attractive models in beautiful clothes of beautiful colors and fabrics, and they showed their appreciation by their "oohs" and "aahs" and enthusiastic applause.

In addition, they were treated to lively music, singing and a puppet show.

The entire entertainment was arranged by Raven Chanticleer, an entertainer and black fashion designer, who has a boutique in Manhattan.
