

Center resident is found

A 31-year-old Willowbrook Developmental Center man who was reported missing from the center Monday was found unharmed yesterday about 11 a.m. near Meiers Corners..

A massive search for William Daino was ended when the retarded resident was found outside Tina's Diner on Victory Blvd. by a supervisor in building 9 where he lives.

Daino has a history of wandering away from the 2,600-bed state center and once traveled to his parents' home in Brooklyn. Willowbrook officials could not determine where Daino spent Tuesday evening.

On Christmas Eve another Willowbrook resident, Luis Ramirez, disappeared from the center. His disappearance was not reported to officials for four days. However, and when Ramirez was finally found he was frozen to death.

An investigation into the Ramirez death is still under way.
