

Good news: Baseball benefit

The Benevolent Society for Retarded Children got an unexpected windfall of $168.11 last week when the Staten Island High School All Stars and the Twyford Mucche Majors played a benefit baseball game and donated the proceeds to the organization.

Society president, Mrs. Genevieve Camen, said the much needed cash will go toward the purchase of a hydraulic-gated van for the residents of Building 60 at the Willowbrook Developmental Center.

Mrs. Camen gave a nod to Pete Giacco, who organized the benefit, and, of course, to the players themselves.
