

God bless workers at Willowbrook

I would like to comment about the Staten Island Developmental Center in Willowbrook.

I had volunteered there a while back one day a week for a few hours and did so for six months. It really was difficult at times and very sad. But I got a certain amount of satisfaction in helping those poor darlings.

I thought how hard it is to be around these people and that I should say something about all those who work there. It seems that they never get any recognition from the media.

I admire these people. They have to work there every day.... Yet some do it cheerfully.

I just had to say something so we all can say thank you and God bless you for giving your time and love to our poor outcasts.
