

Lifestyle

Liz Ricciardi's puppet, Mark Reilly, talks about cerebral palsy in the photo at left with Melody James, a puppet worked by Marion Dwyer. The realistic way in which the puppets in The Kids Project discuss their handicaps touches all of the children who are fortunate enough to experience the program, like the Markham Intermediate School children in the photo above.

(S.I. Advance Photos by Frank J. Johns)

Page 1 of 3