To the Class of 1987:

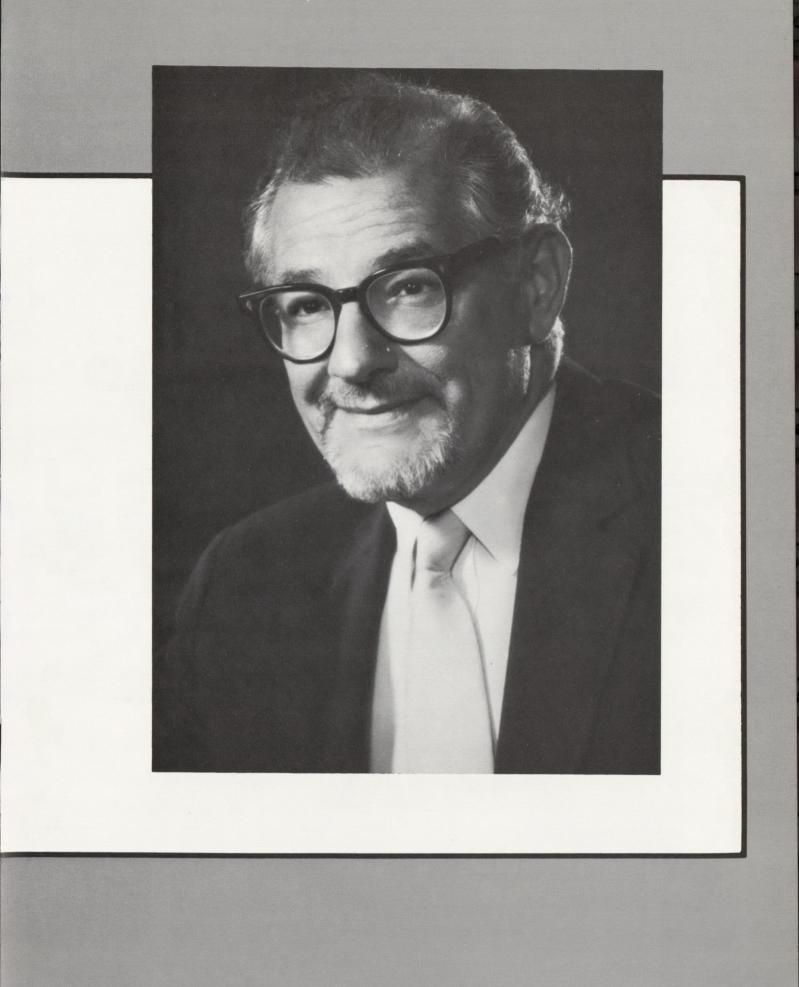

The class of 1987 is the first graduating class in the second decade of the College's history. During our first ten years, about 19,000 students received degrees from the College of Staten Island. Surveys of some of our earlier classes indicate that our graduates are enjoying a great deal of success. Many give credit to the education they received at CSI for their achievements.

I trust that in a very few years, you will add your voice to the growing chorus of graduates who have said that they would choose CSI a second time. The satisfaction of our alumni with their alma mater is the finest reward that faculty, administration, and staff can enjoy. As you leave, carry with you our warm wishes for a life that fulfills all your dreams.

And when many years have passed, and you find this yearbook in the bottom of some drawer, I hope that you will be able to remember 1987 as the beginning of years and years of happiness and success.

Dr. and Mrs. Volpe

On Saturday, September 20th, foods, crafts and the colorful dress of many nations were exhibited at the College's sixth annual International Festival. Young and old alike participated in the cultural celebration! A variety of ethnic dancers performed throughout the day.

The continued success of the Festival can be attributed to the hard work of Mrs. Rose Volpe and her dedicated staff.

The College's second campus is composed of three buildings located in St. George.

Here is where the students enjoy the spectacular view of the Manhattan skyline and have the convenience of being just a ferry's ride away.

Glancing

Here I sit glancing at this world wondering where I belong Here is a world, wondrous in ways.

Giant in many ways and here I be small as a speck looking, feeling, touching and experiencing this wonderful world.

Sometimes up, sometimes down but who knows what I really want from this transient world, this harsh world. Hey there, speak to me tell me where it hurts but I forgot, the world is tone-deaf so here I be alone, by myself alone in this world but who am I kidding this is not what I want, to hear no one, to see no one all by myself is not the answer as I thought

I'll write my own songs sing them alone, but actually I'll be in tuned with all of you out there

Here I stand looking to new horizons never thinking about the past

But always trying to catch up with the future searching, wanting, hoping, catching a light satori, satori, come upon me quietly not like the lion in the fierce jungle.

Sunnyside at night.

Once I was born Once I walked the earth I was equipped with a heart and a soul a heart that wanted to give, to give and touch the world in some way no mean words, just outstretched arms, arms full of love, but then I met other earthlings they tore my heart to shreds what was left were the bones left over from the vultures what was I to think I just don't belong here I said.

Once I believed in a dream a dream where there were people like me my dream, where are you now did I really have this dream questioning, asking myself where do I belong reality sets in remorse is here God I've tried I really did and here I sit still struggling

I want to sleep a rainbows dream a sleep of forgetfulness and nothingness but live I must so here I be.

DEDICATION

Arleigh B. Williamson will always be known as the "father" of the College of Staten Island. It was Mr. Williamson's work and dedication to education that ultimately established our college. Mr. Williamson persuaded city and state officials to agree to establish Staten Island Community College, the first community college in the city of New York in 1955. "Arleigh Williamson was a dear friend and inspiration. His devotion to the students of the college and to increasing the educational opportunities of his fellow Staten Islanders created a lasting tribute to this great educator." Dr. Edmond Volpe President

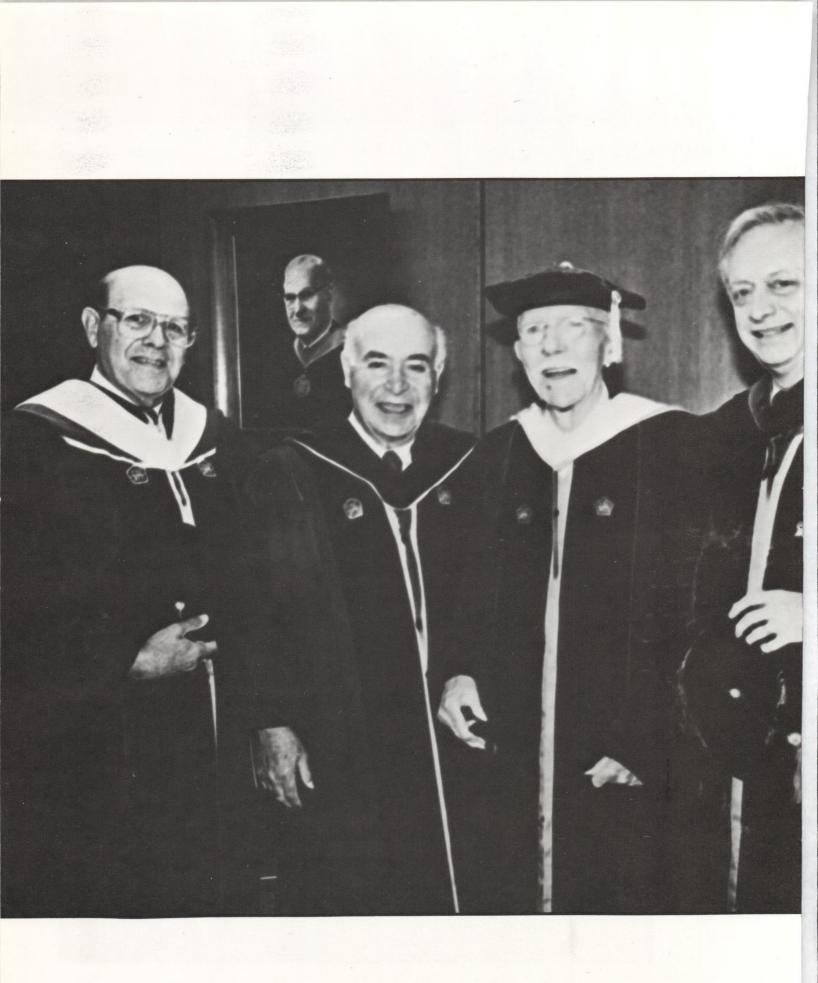

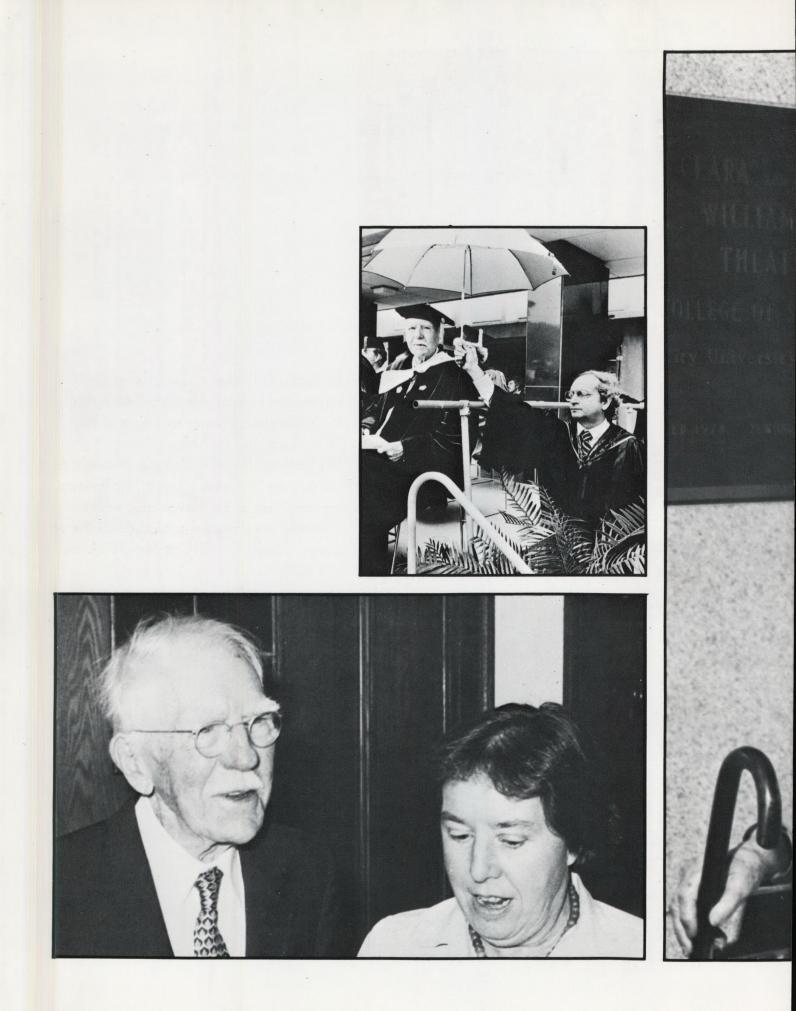

In 1965 Mr. Williamson's devotion to education was evident as he helped in establishing Richmond College as an upperdivision institution on Staten Island.

The College of Staten Island was formed in 1976 when the colleges that Arleigh B. Williamson helped establish merged. "His extraordinary dedication to educational opportunity and academic advancement will remain as a guiding inspiration in the years ahead for the entire city university system." ... Joseph S. Murphy CUNY chancellor

In 1978 the College named its newly refurbished theater the Clara and Arleigh B. Williamson Theater in honor of Mr. Williamson and his wife.

We dedicate the 1987 Dolphin not only to Arleigh B. Williamson but to his lifelong contributions and achievements, which continue to enhance the educational life of Staten Island, the City of New York and the State.

We carry the hope that the memory of Mr. Williamson's ideals will provide new opportunities for future generations.
