

General Mac Aber Elected New College President

General Malcolm Mac Aber has been appointed President of SICK for the 1967-1968 academic year. The appointment followed President W. Villig's statement that he will be unable to continue in his present capacity. The current president has decided to devote his full-time efforts to serving on the ad hoc attendance committee. He plans to study the educational practices in Lazy Creek, Arkansas.

President Well Suited

It was felt that General Mac

President Mac Aber—caught in one of his rare good moods

Aber was best suited for the job in view of his ideal background and experience. The General was born in a canoe on the Amazon River. He was left alone at the age of four, when his parents committed double suicide. As a youngster, General Mac Aber contracted malaria and was sent to a "clinic" where he recuperated. Upon leaving the "clinic" he was issued a new suit and a ten dollar bill.

His Ability Is Recognized

General Mac Aber came to New York at the age of fourteen and attended P.S. 23. His teachers immediately recognized the nature of his ability and he was graduated from P.S. 23 at the age of 24.

General Mac Aber's educational background enabled him to join "The Armed Citizens for Subjugation of Humanity," a para-military organization. As a member of ACSH, Mr. Mac Aber excelled in psychological warfare. He was promoted to the rank of General when he succeeded in infiltrating a luncheonette in the East Bronx.

Famous for His Writing

General Mac Aber is also a noted writer. He is author of the current smash, "Do Unto Others as They Would Do Unto You—Only Do It First." He also is co-author of the book, "Murder Your Business Partner for Increased Profit." General Mac Aber wrote this book in collaboration with the late J. J. Jouch.

Changes Will Be Made

The new President plans to open new courses in the Fall, 1967 semester, some of which are outlined in this issue of The Dolphin. His reason for initiating these courses is that "students should oughtta know how ta do odda tings ba-

School Closed

The Faculty, after a heated discussion followed by a student riot, has voted to close the school on April 9, 1967.

Meetings Are a Front "SOCK" — Secret Faculty Cult Is Exposed By Academy Cave-In

The recent collapse of the Academy building, 45 Wall Street, has exposed a secret faculty witchcraft cult. According to latest reports, the cult has been using Faculty meetings as a front for its secret gatherings.

Desire to Please Dullardia

The group, the Sacred Order for the Cancellation of Knowledge, is led by J. Senjon who is known as the "Ethereal Goddess." According to Miss Senjon, the Order is dedicated to "Dullardia," the spirit of ignorance. Members of

Double Ceremony Interrupted

The collapse occurred as the cult was engaged in a double ceremony. The "Ethereal Goddess" explained that a double ceremony is used to appease Dullardia through both methods. Thus, a pile

"Luciferian Wedding"

SICK Prof. Weds Fan-Am Employee

Mr. A. Cantrovitz, the vibrant English instructor at SICK, was married at the Luciferian Chapel on February 29, 1967. The wedding was followed by a procession to the Boar's Head Tavern.

Apologizes for His Language

On February 29, the Chapel was filled with interested students, teachers, members of the press and internal revenue representatives. The ceremony got under way a half hour late, due to the tardiness of the bride. It was learned later that she was detained by a subway delay. The highlight of the ceremony occurred when Mr. Cantrovitz replied, "Of course I do! What do you think I'm here for?" Later, Mr. Cantrovitz apologized for ending a sentence with a preposition in public. The wedding party left the Chapel at 4:32 P.M.

Mrs. Cantrovitz Not Human

The wedding procession was halted, temporarily, when the drivers stopped to buy oats. After some delay, the group reached the Boar's Head Tavern. The party featured live entertainment. Some of the guests were afraid that the

T. Kake, was employed by Fan American Airlines. Her employer remarked that he was sorry to see her leave since, in his words, "She was the best mechanic we ever had." At her shower, Mrs. Cantrovitz's co-workers presented her with a sterling silver monkey wrench.

After the reception, The Dolphin interviewed the couple as they were leaving the Boar's Head Tavern. Mrs. Cantrovitz, when asked where the couple met, replied, "We bumped into each other in the dark on a southbound freight car."

Reporter Disappears

The Dolphin sent a reporter to interview General Mac Aber. However, the reporter never returned. Nevertheless, The Dolphin was able to locate the notes taken by the ill-fated staff member.

Question: "Are you looking forward to your new job?"

Answer: "Yeah!"

The Sacred Order on the rise . . .

the cult believe that this dangerous spirit can only be appeased by human sacrifice and the abolition of all knowledge on Earth.

With respect to the former, Miss Senjon says that the group has made great progress. The Dolphin wonders if this may account for the strange disappearances of Professor Arleechsen and Dr. Passon.

Roof Gives in to Cult

According to Chief Academy Engineer Angelo Skarfeet, the collapse was caused by burning incense which had a corrosive effect on the wooden roof. The Sacred Order has announced that it has ostracized Dr. Pierre L. Fox for of gasoline-saturated books were about to be burned. This would constitute a "cancellation of knowledge." The second goal, human sacrifice, would also have been accomplished, since Dr. T. F. Symmes was perched atop the pile. Dr. Symmes claims that the building collapse was not an accident, but rather a sign that the spirit wishes that his life be spared. He feels that Mr. Leapman would make a better sacrifice.

A House Divided—Falls

Mr. Leapman does not agree, and further advocates that Dr. Symmes be buried alive at the next meeting.

New Fall Electives

At the request of the new President, SICK will expand its course offerings for the Fall, 1967 semester. The following are the names and descriptions of the new electives:

An Explanation

Because it snowed last week, we can not blame you for not realizing that we are in the warm spring month of April. In order to put everyone in the right frame of reference, The Dolphin has produced this issue in the light care-free spirit of this month.

If you make any analogies concerning the first three pages of this April Fool's Issue you are either hallucinating or you have a guilty conscience.

We Want Equal Cuts

The Dolphin demands that the Faculty vote immediately on the experimental cuts program. The reason for our sudden change of opinion is three-fold:

One: Since the faculty has unlimited cuts and all of the courses at SICK are of the self-teaching type it is really not necessary to come to school.

Two: Since 1958 seventy-nine students have refused to attend classes on the grounds that they were being treated as children. Every day for the last ten years these students have done handstands in the middle of Bay Street in order to publicize their protest. The Dolphin recently had an interview with Alfred Cuttings, the leader of the demonstrators, and he informed us that the entire group was offered a full four-year scholarship to Berkley. The Dolphin feels that the best going away present we could give them is passing of the unlimited cuts experiment.

Three: We have been informed by the Office of Admissions that Rocky and some of his engineering friends from Brooklyn Tek have been accepted for fall admission at the new campus. That's right — Rocky and the Engineers!

They are the ones who shot Mr. Goody because he sang the National Anthem off key at a football game. They are also infamous for burning down Madison Square Garden when they were disqualified in the all-city peanut rolling contest. And two years ago they kidnapped 500 girls from Bay Ridge High School when their principal wouldn't let them run a nudist colony across the street in Fort Green Park.

A couple of days ago we received a letter from Rocky which said, "If SICK ain't got no unlimited cuts by the time me and my boys get there, we're gonna put all the teachers in a row boat in the middle of Clove Lake and take away the paddles. Then we are gonna set up a nudist colony in the science and technology building."

If the administration thinks the demonstrations are getting out of hand now, they had better prepare themselves (if we don't have the cuts experiment in existence) for the first semester at the new campus.

Editorial Board Observations

SICK Student Comments
 A study just completed by the administration has shown that since the passage of the unlimited cuts rule, more than 90 percent of the Faculty have not been on campus for the last two months, and about 25 percent do not plan to attend classes at all this term. What happened to our mature, rational teachers? said one SICK student.

Turn Out Vote Unbelievable
 The continuing decrease in student interest in college activities was again evident in this term's

S.A. elections. The final count for president was 17 to 14. However, the Freshmen Queen elections, by comparison, were impressive with a total vote of 136 for Karen Smith, and 12 for Robert Newberg.

Island Transportation Affected
 Yesterday the Staten Island Rapid Transit System inaugurated service on its new high-speed run between the metropolitan areas of Tottenville and St. George. The four-car trains will travel at speeds averaging 150 mph, hence completing the trip in about 3 minutes. Coincidentally, the Department of

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
 Although I have addressed this letter with the customary salutation — "Dear Editor" — I would rather have written "Dear Pink Degenerates!" Your newspaper, The Dolphin, is brought home monthly by my daughter, an innocent and unsuspecting student at SICK. This rag combines slanderous attacks on all that is precious, with illiterate prose that sadly reflects the moral depravity and intellectual obscenity of our younger generation. Your reporting is replete with error, distortion, and offensive rhetoric. Why don't you either learn the purpose of a college newspaper or resign and permit a more responsible and mentally coherent element in the student population to assume control?

She Loves Humanity

I am a mild woman, given to charity and good works; my entire life has been dedicated unstintingly to the fight against sin and corruption; I have always treated people, regardless of their innate depravity or deficiency, often resulting from meta-racial factors beyond their control, with correct condescension: I truly LOVE humanity when men and women are properly regulated by necessary repression and self-control. But I have this to say to you! May you rot in the heat of your tangled and obscene prose. You are beyond disgrace and redemption.

The Fight Must Be Waged

I have informed my daughter that if she ever brings your rag home again I will disinherit her — strong words, to be sure, but the fight for moral cleanliness must be waged beyond the narrow, although precious, ties that bind a family.

With deepest contempt,
An Outraged Mother.

Marine and Aviation announced the retirement of the Mary Murry and the Miss New York. There was no reason given for this unexpected action.

UEO Concedes to Demands

Collective bargaining with the United Elevator Operators of America (Local 13 located in the 50 Bay Street building) has resulted in an agreement that students may now use the elevators until ten minutes after the hour. The students would like to thank them for this humanitarian act of decency.

Slug Change Machine Installed

Because of the increase in quarter slug usage, the business office has agreed to install on an experimental basis a quarter slug change machine. It will dispense two ten-cent and one five-cent slugs for a quarter slug. This is intended to aid students who don't have the correct slug for various machines around the school which require the exact amounts.

The Heat's on in the Library

The students' drive "to lower the heat in the library" has finally achieved recognition. The administration has announced, effective April 2, that 28 Bay Street will be closed as the SICK library and will reopen May 1 as Staten Island's first Turkish Steam Bath.

P. E. Students Reveal Results

According to research done this past winter it was theorized, by a select panel of Pre-Engineering students, if 1/8 of an inch of ice formed on the sidewalk of Wall Street this decrease in friction

From The Rib

The Dolphin strongly urges every student to continue boycotting classes and participating in demonstrations. Here is a list of demonstrations planned for Wednesday, April 31.

List of Demonstrations

9 A.M. — All lower freshmen are to go on a scavenger hunt looking for rocks, bricks and other objects worthy of throwing. At half past the hour these collected objects will be heaved through every window on campus.

Sing By The Fire Side

10 A.M. — All upper freshmen are to enter the auditorium and rip out the seats. At half past the hour they will make a bonfire with the remains of the seats. Then the entire student body will sit around the fire roasting marshmallows and singing vulgar anti-teacher songs

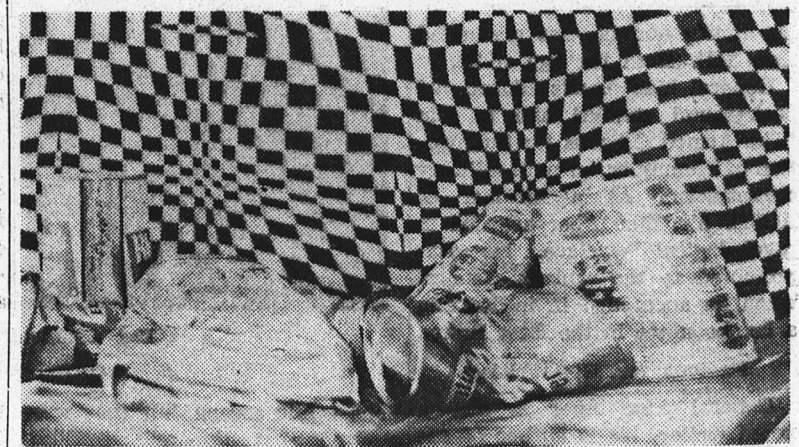

Roasting the Rule

11 A.M. — The editor of The Dolphin and the president of SA will appear at the bonfire. As they burn the old catalogue, which contains the archaic rule, they will receive a standing ovation.

There will be a pause in the demonstrations from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. This will enable us to prepare for the afternoon activities and to eat lunch.

Sick Students on T.V.

1 P.M. — The special beer drinking contest (open to sophomores only) will be held. Tonight several students from SICK will be interviewed for a special nationally televised program concerning the teachers' cutting problem. When we are asked how we feel about the situation we will all pretend to be deaf and dumb. Then the winner of the beer-drinking contest will take the microphone and make the belch that will be heard around the world.

Trouble With Plumbing

2 P.M. — All lower sophomores will flush molotov cocktails down every toilet in the school. Then they will take all faculty sympathizers and lock them in the bathrooms.

Painting The Town

3 P.M. — All upper sophomores will depart from the SICK campus. They will proceed to the homes of every faculty member, paint their houses purple and write nursery rhymes on their ceilings.

Award For Best Demonstration

4 P.M. to 6 P.M. — This period is set aside for individual and/or creative demonstrations. Remember that at the end of each semester the person with the most unique demonstration gets to go on a 3 week cruise with the Freshman Queen. If the winner is a girl she will have the honor of posing for the centerfold of Playboy.

The following is a note to all recently hired and borrowed demonstrators.

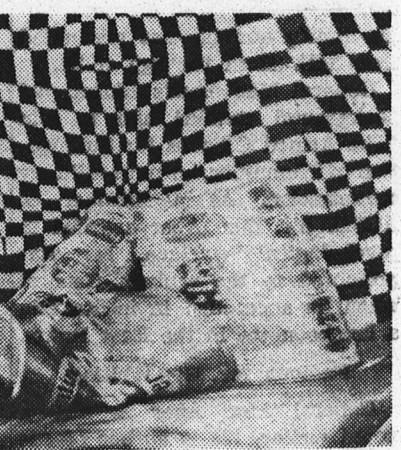

The Dolphin realizes how much you enjoy smashing and destroying things, and we appreciate your ability. However, we would like each mercenary to have some idea of what he is protesting, regardless of how indifferent he might be towards our goal. This is especially important when one is asked by the press or by a member of the community what exactly are we fighting and demonstrating for. In the next few paragraphs I will explain how a sad, desperate and ugly situation has come to pass.

Self-Teaching Style

Three semesters ago students were shocked in their English classes by the introduction of the 3200 book. They were told to take the book home and teach themselves. The semester after that, all the books were changed to the self-teaching style. Last semester, Dr. Glue commented that since the school was on a self-teaching basis, there was really no need for teachers. We all laughed and thought he was kidding. But alas, what he said was only a foreshadowing of what was to come.

Cut Committee—A Farce

At the beginning of this semester Dr. Glue organized his forces. He pushed and shoved and connived to get unlimited cuts for the faculty. He sent Dr. Passen, the man who offered him the greatest opposition, into exile. He had everything well planned and organized. The committee that was formed to investigate the possibility of an experimental program, which would enable all instructors with tenure to take an unlimited amount of cuts from their classes, was a fix. Dr. Sames, Prof. Schorner and others, who were strongly against the unlimited cuts programs, were not permitted on the committee while at the same time Dr. Glue himself became a committee member.

Cuts Bill Passed . . . Faculty Splits

The committee voted overwhelmingly to pass the unlimited cuts bill and as of now 43% of the Faculty are in Florida, 39% are in South America, 17.8% are unlocatable, and .2% are teaching at SICK. If the administration expects the student body to come to classes and stare at the walls, they are nuts.

would make it impossible for anyone over 37 pounds to walk up the hill to the Academy building. It should be noted that it was this same group who determined that bees, because of their weight and small wing area, can't really fly. (And you wonder why the drop-out rate is so high in engineering?)

The Earth Turns, Ya?

Little do we realize that at every moment that the earth is turning, we are turning also. In a recent scientific study done by the Weldenheimer Institute for Technological-Psychology, 43% of the people over the age of 17 had no idea of what was going to happen if the revenigated advance were to be carried out. This shocking poll revealed that out of the people questioned 35% realized the consequences and 22% were undecided.

People over 17

Yes35%
 No43%
 Undecided22%

People over 25

Yes%
 No62%
 Undecided24%

Thus shockingly we may assume that the lowest percentage of the "No's" and "Undecided's" come from the 17-24 year age group. Therefore, in order to alleviate this menacing problem of mere neglect by the 25 years and over age group, the Weldenheimer Institute will institute a "get to it" program beginning in the fall of 1967. Prominent figures in the field will appear as guest lecturers. Tentatively the classes will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Romper Building. They will most probably begin at about 7:15 unless they are not held (sometimes).

Dr. Ulrich Zeigeist, Rev. DOBU (University of Breslau), one of the foremost scholars and critics in the field of revenigated advances and one of the greatest minds in general revenigation, asked me not to publish this article for fear of gonocilnation in the field.

Therefore in order to rectify the scandalous assault upon his field he kindly sent us the following letter.

The Reply

Dear Editor:

It is unfriendly for me to have some writings to you of these matter. But, however, I must. Why are you writing so? And if so, why now? At this stage of revenigation studies, we here at Breslau U. can be only but shocked, very much. You have making most unprecious assumptions, in keeping not at all with our German thorough.

That the earth turns, probably. However, when? And if so, why now? A manifest of slippy thinking, we konsider. Of such polls as in your article you have instituted a beginning of in analytical method of very statistical not, we cannot. Not now, anyhow.

My colleagues also. It is after all, not of the medieval. But later. Very much. Revenigation cannot be halted. You are trying. This is wrong. Very wrong. We here in Free World Western Germany know of the wrong, and in the past also. Please you are printing this, yes?

Skeetilgrove - Thrills & Chills

Underneath the Skeetilgrove, a performance of six one-act plays by Arthur Tranch at the Pinchron Playhouse, is a delightful conglomeration of absurd theater. The first of the plays entitled "Marjory my Lovely Benefactor" concerns the tribulations of a misunderstood misanthrope who falls in love with a sadist named Marjory, brilliantly portrayed by Eillen Peacock. The misanthrope was played by David Creamunch, one of the leading actors in the British Repertory TAT Company. Although the misanthrope's hate and cynicism for mankind is finally replaced by the love of Marjory, the ending is tragic with the protagonist, a cat named Rudolf, dying of toxic poisoning. The extremely sad climax only brings the misanthrope and Marjorie closer together.

Wear Black - Boomy Is Dead

The next three plays The Wail of a Moocher, Only for Cheesecloth, and Let's Sublimate Our Objectivity are all based around the same theme of indication and rejuvenation. John Anthony in The Wail of a Moocher portrays an alienated zookeeper whose only joy in life is feeding the seals in the zoo. His downfall at the end of the play is the result of the death of Boomy, the oldest of the six seals in the zoo. He then withdraws into a state of almost total non-communication and returns to his humble background in the slums of Libya.

One Less Person Got Off In India

Only for Cheesecloth is a play where we once again are confronted with a character trying to determine his reality in a world of fantasy and symbols. Larry Vergouth, the star of this play, portrays a young man seeking to find a simplicity that he could never have obtained in this society. His friend Gangol, played by Allen Bengiery, gives him a ticket to India but just to be cute the protagonist parachuted from the plane while they were over Japan. He lands in the middle of a Buddhist sanctuary and he is accepted there as another person seeking spiritual fulfillment. His shortcomings are supplemented when he takes on a very close relationship with one of the monks in the monastery. Word carried that he was having a homosexual affair with the young monk and both were cast out of the sanctuary. While on the run he loses his sight and only then does he realize that he has found the true simplicity that he was looking for.

The Springs Don't Squeak In Bed

Let's Sublimate Our Objectivity is a one act farce on the troubles of a young and sexually frustrated couple played by Richard and Kathy Wormsville. No matter how they try they can not achieve any type of fulfillment so they decide to substitute the sexual act by playing Tic Tac Toe in the bedroom.

Fake Out - No Tea In The House

The final two plays were entitled, Call and I'll Whistle and Get Your Thumb Out of My Coffee. Get Your Thumb Out of My Coffee is a dramatic interpretation of the novel by Dennis Franklove. The characters are all members of a women's tea club and one day they went to one of their controversial tea parties and found that, through a matter of neglect, coffee was being served. The characters, in order to show their disapproval, all stuck their fingers into one another's coffee. The whole act became a game in which all participants were allowed to stick any of their fingers, excluding the thumb, into the cups of their friends.

Get your thumb out of my coffee!

One of the characters does not heed the rule and inadvertently places his thumb into the coffee. The matter was resolved when the hostess' husband, who is a moron, comes home and says that the person who disregarded the rule should be ousted from the community.

"SPEAK OUT" At Humpty's Party

Humpty Dumpty held a party last week and all the egg-heads were there. They were drinking that cheap wine and many of them tended to be philosophical. I decided to record some of the more significant statements and hold the respected speakers forever responsible. And now, for their literary value and historical potential, I present to you some of the more serious quotes of the evening:

"There is no glory in outstripping donkeys"

Gypsy Rose Lee

"I sometimes hold it half a sin to put in words the grief I feel"

David Jansen

"Nothing can have value without being an object of utility"

The Buddha

"Whatever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens"

George Lincoln Rockwell

"Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country."

A conscientious objector

"These are the times that try men's souls"

Question: "I didn't mean it that way. I hope I haven't been too precipitous. I don't want to bring out any predilection by showing your predatory nature."

Answer: "Yor're really askin for it buddy. I tink I'm gonna rub you out."

More Contact With Students

At this point, there is no further entry in the notebook. In any event, General Mac Aber will assume his duties in the Fall. To reduce travelling time and thus increase his student contact, Gendual Mac Aber will pitch a tent in the parking lot at the new campus. He has indicated that any student questions will be answered gladly. Students seeking a personal interview should obtain a "Request for Police Escort" form from the registrar.

Is It Time For Your Daily Whipping?

Call and I'll whistle is a play concerned with the hardships of a prostitute on the South Side of Chicago. She wants to go straight but her financial needs are much greater than her moral needs. The last scene of the play shows her being struck by lightning in the street.

All in all, Underneath the Skeetilgrove provides an enjoyable evening of group sadism with trades of audience participation in certain scenes. I liked these plays very much and I recommend them for all people who like to go to plays.

CLUB NEWS

Language Club

The Language Club once again is having a bang of a busy program this semester and is continuing at last semester's hectic pace.

A Lasagna Party staged by the club on March 9th was a huge success. The menu included various types of lasagna and a typical Italian salad followed by pastry in the Italian motif. The only thing missing was "vino Italiano." Those who remembered the club's Buffet Espanol last semester again had their taste buds "pleasured."

The program of this spirited club does not let up for a moment. The following flicks have been scheduled for the amusement of the student body: March 30, The Red Balloon; April 6, Bicycle Thief; April 27, Fidel Castro, Algeria and Flavio (a Brazilian film) May 11, Marcel Marceau, The Moor's Pavane, Berber Dancers and 3000 Years of Peruvian Culture.

Besides films, the program includes an illustrated talk by Mrs. Klingman on "The Art of Goya, Velazquez and El Greco." A talk and discussion on "Modern Germany" will be given by a representative from the German Consulate in the near future.

Such theater parties as Man of La Mancha, Yerma, and Los Indios Tabajaras, have already taken place this semester.

Through the efforts of the club the theater tickets are secured in advance for these performances and all members of the student body are invited to attend.

In a typical international setting the club plans a "Cabaret Night," the theme of which will be a (Parisian-style) nightclub, complete with dim lights, soft music and a band.

Concluding its social calendar for this spring semester will be a five-day excursion to Montreal with some time spent at "Expo. 67." Details and time schedule will be announced in the near future either by Miss Stein or by the club's president, Miss Kaupinen.

Menorah Society

The Menorah Society and the Language Club will co-sponsor a co-lecture by Vera Lachmann a Professor of Classics and Comparative Literature, and the author Spencer Holst.

They will discuss the work of Nobel Prize winner Nelly Sachs and give a reading and interpretation of her poetry.

Prof. Lachmann will also lecture on the poetry of Nelly Sachs on the "Eternal Light" program on WNBC radio this Sunday, April 2, at 12:30 p.m.

SICC will be host to this interesting reading and discussion on April 13 at 12 noon in the Academy auditorium.

The Menorah Society, The Discussion Club and the Language Club are sponsoring a discussion on New Political Developments in Germany. The speakers will be Dr. Niels Hansen, German Deputy Consul General and Mrs. Carol Weisberde, Assistant to the Director of International Affairs of the American Jewish Congress. The moderator will be Professor Martin Kuhn.

The discussion will take place on April 21 at 12 noon in the 45 Wall St. Gymnasium.

Rally For Free CUNY

My dear friends:

For years, we of the City University have fought to maintain free tuition and independence of our City University from the State University. Many of us have signed petitions, participated in on-campus rallies, and have even travelled to Albany to fight for our cause. Now, with the inception of the New York Constitutional Convention, we have the opportunity to win a great victory. By standing united, we can demonstrate to the delegates to the Constitutional Convention the necessity of guaranteeing in the new State Constitution a free and independent CUNY.

Toward this end, we are holding a "Rally For a Free and Independent CUNY," at Brooklyn College, Walt Whitman Auditorium, Monday, April 10th, 1967, 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. It is our desire that every college within the City University participate in this rally. Surely, the larger the number of students participating, the greater the effect will be.

I would like to take this opportunity to ask you to join with us. I hope your student government will endorse our rally and that you will send as many students as possible to Brooklyn College on April the 10th.

Sincerely,

Stephen Gappelberg
 CUNY Coordinator
 Brooklyn College.

Theater Report

This has nothing to do with April Fool — it's for real, baby! The Theatrical Workshop was so successful with its production of The Private Ear and The Public Eye that it's going to do three plays this semester!

Hell Is Other People

Mr. Blank of the Evening Session English Dep't. will direct No Exit by Jean-Paul Sartre. The play with three equally antagonistic people, a lesbian, a nymphomaniac and a man shot for cowardice, is set in a room symbolic of Hell. The play shows that "Hell is other people," says Mr. Blank. It will be shown Thursday, April 20, during club hours, and Friday at 8 p.m. in the Academy Building.

Direct From The Village

Like I'm Talking to You Now, a folk-rock play by Charles and Quinton Raines, will be performed on Friday, May 19, at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium. It is composed of live folk music and skits, and was presented in the Village in 1965. Directed by Charles Raines, it makes use of the cabaret situation, and refreshments will be served during the performance just as it's done in a cabaret.

Stop The Aging Process

The major production, The Happy Haven, by John Arden, will be directed by The Theatrical Workshop's faculty advisor, Mr. Robert Baker. Harry Dishon, Mary Ward, Nyra Valle and Barney Manzol constitute the lead performers. Four other people will play two characters each. The action takes place in an old age home and involves a wiley scientist's attempt to give a youth elixir to the inmates. The set design, which makes use of platforms extending into the audience, combines elements of the Shakespearian, proscenium, and arena stage. The club has scheduled two performances, on April 28 and 29, at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Tickets for the latter two shows are available in the English Office.
