and Fiery Dance entertained us throughout the school year.

In the fall, some regulars from the dance world came once again to demonstrate their craft. They included the Nanette Bearden Company and the Louines Louinis Dance Theatre.

February, in addition to being start of the spring semester, brought us the American Express Jazz Festival. This years featured performer was the Wynton Marsalis and his septet. They played two fantastic shows in the Williamson Theatre. Also in February the local band RRANGEL played to Valentine's Day audiences. Other bands that played throughout the year J.Q. and the Bandits, Regency, The Sense, and singer Rick Kelly.

Laughter was heard throughout both campuses when comedians brought their sharp wit to the student body. Joey Kola, Tony Powell, Scott Jones, Patty Rosborough, and Bob Garner were just some of those who brought comic relief between our studies.

Here members of the Nanette Bearden Dance Company perform for the seventh straight year at the Williamson Theatre.

With abortion battles still raging in courts, Sara Weddington, lawyer for the defense in Roe vs. Wade decision, came to speak to us.

Pro-lifers and pro-choice still fight vehemently over feteus vs womans rights. Weddington feels her work was justified, and that women today are heading back to a Supreme Court now heavily weighed against them. They must fight even harder if they are pro-choice.

YEAR N REVIEW

AIR WAR BEGINS JAN. 16, 1991

The war brought us here at home a deluge of charts and graphs and much speculation about any and all aspects of the war.

People trying to find out about various aspects gleaned information from every source possible and the media went wild jumping on every bit of news like hungry lions. But all those at home were relieved to see the fighting at least for the allied countries end in less than seven weeks. But to this day rebels fight Saddem Hussein's forces for control of Iraq.

WE'VE WON . . AND NOW WE'RE GOING HOME

Young people from all over the country fought both for and against the war. The argument ranged from "Saddam is the Devil" to "So is George Bush." Many wonder whether the Kuwait Emir was any better than Hussain. While others countered that Hussain would overrun everyone in the area to control oil killing anyone in his path, even children.

Both sides waved flags professing their love of country and support of the troops.

To this day there are still questions but now the fighting is over and the rebuilding has begun.

With a Shout ..

It's early in December, 1990 the students began to shout, they found a reason, a cause and it was their time to take charge. They faced a seemingly simple problem, the state wanted to increase tuitions at CUNY and SUNY. Solution ask them to stop, Well ... it wasn't that easy ...

Act One: It began with a racing University Student Senate, they were moving to stop the CUNY Board of trustees from voting on and approving an increase of the $100. An emergency meeting was held the night before the Board was to meet, the meeting lasted well into the wee hours of the morning so the students moved on up to the students moved on up to the students moved on up to the student he Board into not passing the increase that Albany had granted them.

The Board though had different ideas. They somehow expected them and were prepared to keep them out. The meeting was scheduled for seven o'clock A.M. and nobody but the Board was invited.

Students struggled to get in through windows and doors, finally when the meeting convened the Board was hounded by the shouts and screams of the angry visitors, jeering them at every word. The Board had had enough, they adjourned the meeting to an undisclosed location, and the students couldn't follow; they had lost, the Board voted in the $100 increase without even a whimper.

without even a whimper. Act Two: With January the new semester would bring in more than just that extra hundred dollars to CUNY but with a wave of small protests as now Gov. Cuomo announced a decision to ask the legislature to again increase the tuition for the 1991-92 year to $1,950, an over $500 increase. Claiming severe budgetary woes, Cuomo decided that the students could handle another few hundred a year.

Problem was the STU-DENTS didn't think so; at first there was great apathy, protests were small. NO ONE REALLY BELIEVED that they could do this. But then, the realization sank in they really were going to do it and the protests got big and bad.

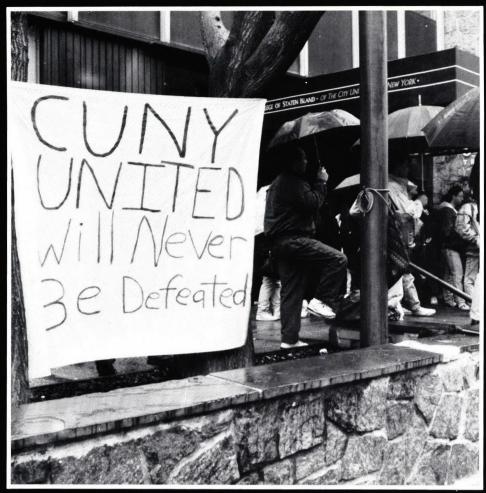

Act Three: The front lines, at home, they started by protesting in front of the schools, then inside the buildings, and finally they threw everybody else out and took over the buildings to get their point across. Lehman Manhattan Community, City, Hunter, City Technical, all had taken some part of their campuses. Other campuses offered large gatherings of protest or fought for some positive reinforcement to sidetrack the already 2,000 class sections that had been cut throughout the year.

CARTOLANO

Here the protests were shortved but a group of students ying to do some positive work ook over the library and forced to stay open 24 hours a day, lowing our students to study or upcoming exams more easy. This led to the eventual oncession on the administraon's behalf to keep the library pen and fully staffed until 12 idnight every evening.

Last Act: It's now June and he legislature has just passed a udget in which is included the 500.00 increase, all the prosters who took over buildings re gone, others worry about hether the Governor will acially pass the tremendous inrease; and its impact on edcation in this state is still yet to e seen. The final curtain on his act may not come for a ing, long, time.

And The Saints Came Marching In . . .

And you thought we were the only ones who were mad ... It was April 25th a cloudy day, but there was something strange going on in Battery Park. People were gathering all kinds of people. They came from all over the city and state as well as from other states and other countries. All came to voice one basic opinion; that cutting services and the jobs for those services was outrageous.

They invited students, 3000-5000 of them, from all the city and private colleges to join them as they too were worried about the future of these institutions in light of the proposed cuts in Financial aid at both the state and federal level.

They wanted to make sure that their children

CARTOLANO

CARTOLANO could get a college educatio at a reasonable cost.

As the day progressed and the crowd gathered, and the sky began to break up, the clouds dispersing, and the sun shining ... then the marchers started. With crief of "Tax the rich not poort "Cutback we say, F--- That! "Hell no Cuomo" the pounded up Broadway and then down Church street to the mall at the World Trad Center trying to enlist the aid of the financial district in their fight.

It made a lot of noise, a lo of people noticed the larg crowd, the police said ther were 25,000, the papers sai 45,000, the protester 100,000, whichever numbe you believe they made thei impact, they got heard, bu now we wait to see if th right people were listening.

November, 6 1990 The process for Staten Island to secede from the City of New York begins. Voters on Staten Island decide overwhelmingly to study the possibility of seceding from the rest of the city, for those of us at the college this meant various consequences. First with our new campus approaching and it to be finished at the same time as the secession study will be done — the fall of 1993 — we may be faced with a battle for ownership as some of the funds for the college come directly from the city. Considering that if the Island does finally decide to secede then we will be forced to become a SUNY campus which would significantly increase an already increasing tuition. Whatever happens this decision shall bring much change to the school and to its students.

 $\frac{1}{2}$  a score and nine days ago today ... well not exactly but a decade ago saw the first yearbook of the College Of Staten Island. It was not the though the first book of students associated with the two campuses, no that honor goes to Horizon and Richmond College's yearbooks. These books were from the two colleges that combined to form CSI. Staten Island Community College and Richmond College. The first is lost to me but I venture to guess that the 1958 edition of Ancora was the first book from SICC then housed in was what is now 50 Bay science labs to use. In 1959 the "new" campus was announced (what we know now as Sunnyside. Here is the plans as pictured in the 1961 Horizon . . .

R.C. (no, not Roman Catholic) Richmond College started back in 1967 and as an upper division college in the City University. The book pictured Below is from 1971 and the pop culture of the 60's was still a strong influence all over the country the student here created a multi-sectioned book which came in a separate binder here are some of the three outer covers that came on the book that arrived to students without a single printed word inside.

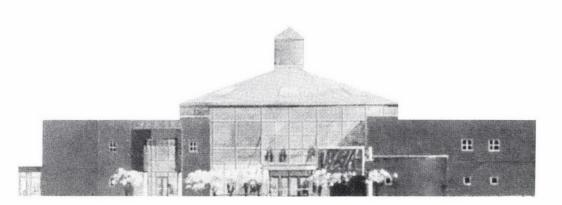

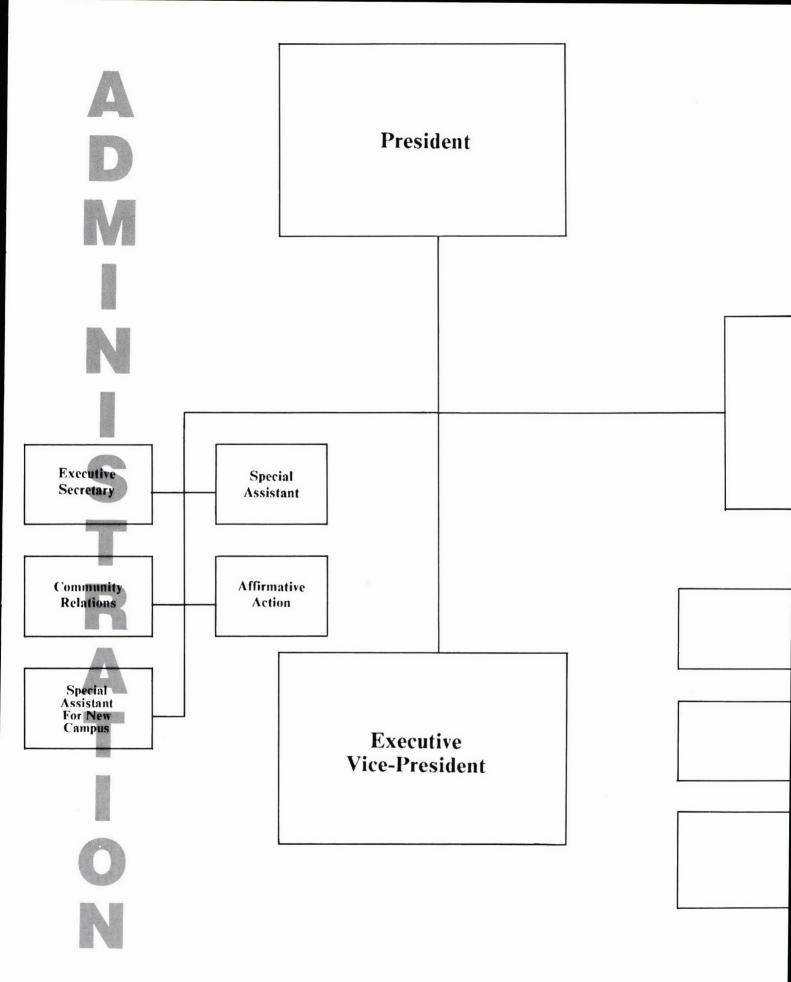

1981 brought students and faculty together to create lasting remembrance of the newly formed college. Beginning again a tradition that they hope will continue for a long time to come ...

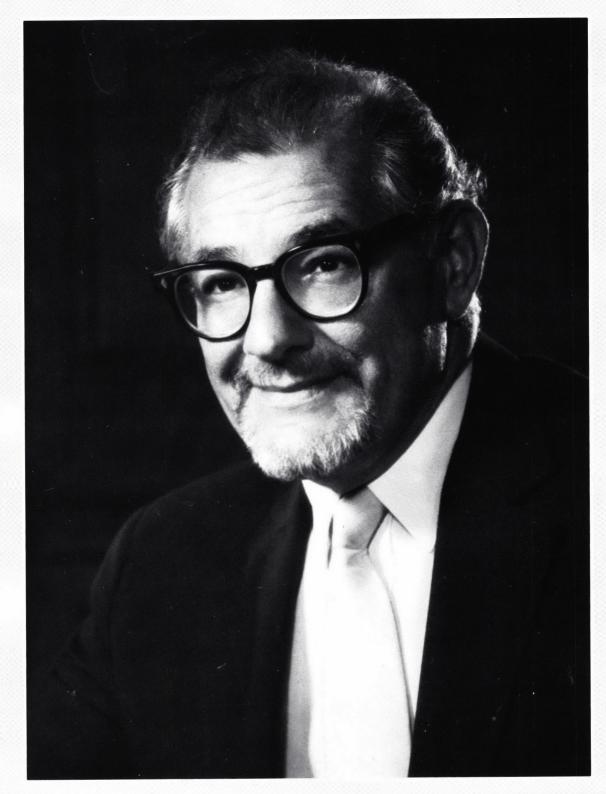

Well it's 1991 and you've got this book in your hands. I hope you find this one to be an enjoyment and reminder for another four decades.

The first . . . but not the last . . .

Yes it was the first time that CSI's Baseball team was invited to the NCAA tournament but it will definitely not be the last. The record the team had last year and this year prove that it is possible for the Dolphins to put together a consistent team. Last year's 26-5 record seemed to be good enough for anyone but not for the NCAA committee they said "Na who are these guys?". This year though they finished 27-7 and convinced the nameless ones that they were worthy and thus we moved to the final four (haha).

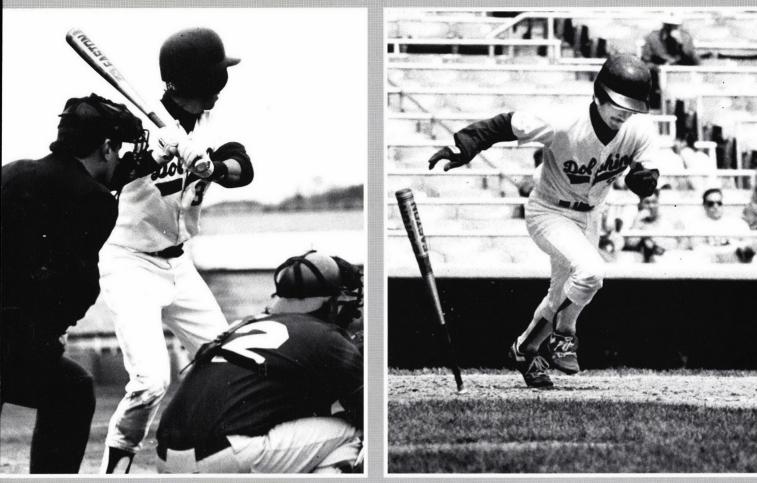

The team lost the first game to ITH-ACA. GAME TWO: St. Lawrence got beat handily by our boys 6-5 keeping HOPE alive and it did it well as the next game vs Montclair State were trounced 8-3.

AND THE WINNER IS ... well not quite yet the game was fierce with us winning all the way to the 7th inning winning all the way to the 7th inning but it was not to be for Ithaca lossing 11-8 taking us to game seven . . . (sounds like the REAL series was h not back in October, huh?). Trying to rally in the eighth while being down 5-3 Tom Tierney slides i second knocking down the baseman, Vasquez (the hitter) is safe at first right naw you weren't pay attention to the rules both the bums are out. At least according to new NCAA rules and the blind umpire. we lose, but DID we? I don't really think so, with the recognition we received by being invited it will be h not to give another Dolphin team with as good a record a berth in the next NCAA regionals. Next ti they'll take it all the way to the college world series.

SWEET VICTORY LADY DOLPHINS WIN C.U.N.Y. CHAMPIONSHIP FOR FIRST IN 8 YEARS

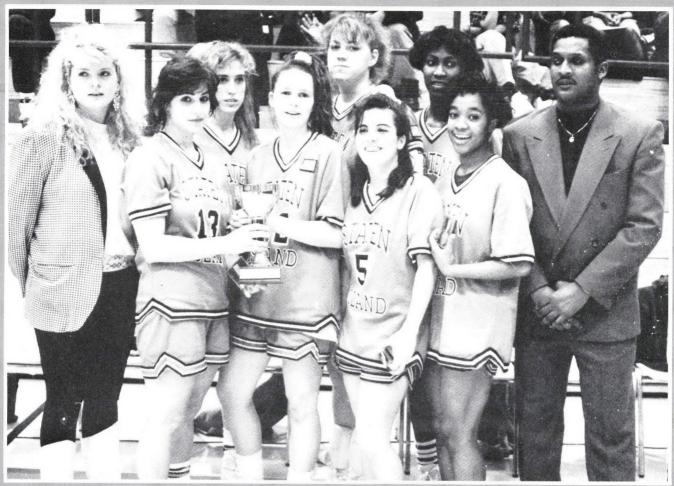

The Ladies worked very hard to achieve their first C.U.N.Y. victory since 1983. The 71-46 win over Hunter College showed the fabulous playing abilities the team demonstrated.

The crew, crippled by the small 7 member team, throughout the season struggled to keep fouls to minimum and still play aggressive ball. The fight paid off for the team and Coach Gerry Mosley, the driving force of the team and C.U.N.Y. Coach of the Year, giving them their very well deserved victory.

Winning Isn't Everything

1991 marked the first time in 4 years that C.S.I. didn't win the C.U.N.Y. Championship. The C.U.N.Y. Championship and C.S.I. have been married to each other since 1980.

This years team, after having lost most of the previous team to graduation, had a hard struggle to rebuild the working structure of the team. The final outcome proved better than hoped with a 6-9 record in C.U.N.Y. and 10-17 overall. But with the new players having a year under their belt bets are next season will be considerably better.

And The Ball Rolls On . . .

The undefeated ladies ran to a fifth consecutive CUNY championship and garnered sixth place in the state. They were undefeated in the CUNY Conference winning the championship 8-7 over Hunter.

Two of the teams outstanding players were Paula DeNisco (shortstop) and Erin Donahue (pitcher). Denisco was voted a CUNY player of the year ending the season with a team high .432 batting average.

Erin Donahue was honored as CUNY player of the year as well as CSI Athlete of the Year. During the season Donahue racked up 16 wins despite having pitched a very few games before joining the team.

The teams prospects for next year look just as good as only one of the teams starting members is scheduled to graduate and we can only expect the dynasty to continue.

Playing truly on the ability of a mirror to reverse an image this year's team must have gazed hard into the glass, completely reversing from last years 4-15 season to a 15-4 prize-winning one.

The team garnered the CUNY regular and POST-season titles and also beat division one Wagner. Six members of the team went on to the Metropolitan Collegiate tournament where all six made it to the quarter finals while competing against players from division 1, 2, and 3.

UNTITLED

It's hard to decide It's simply difficult to ponder What pieces fit what spaces What corner go in what places I admire those who do not decide They have no worries And they have no regrets Being a responsible person is not easy It entails a lot of fortuity and sadness. Sometimes heartache cannot be avoided

Some decisions cannot be made This is one of many crossroads a responsible person encounters In their journey to fulfillment Some will say make the decision It is for the better. What is better when it affects you. And you loose who you love It is better not to love, than to love and lose it. And you wander "Did I make the right decision." Akeem
